 Post Acquisition Disputes and Advisory

Rachel represents companies in commercial arbitrations, in the US and internationally, and in investment treaty disputes (under the auspices of ICSID and the UNCITRAL Rules). She has extensive knowledge of the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) and the leading US domestic arbitration rules (AAA, JAMS, CPR) and she advises on mass arbitration issues, including strategies to mitigate mass arbitration risk and defense of companies facing mass arbitrations. Rachel also represents clients around the world in arbitrations under the rules of the major arbitral institutions – including the ICC, ICDR, LCIA, SCIA, HKIAC. Her practice includes arbitration-related litigation in US courts, including actions to compel or stay arbitration proceedings, as well as actions to vacate, confirm or enforce arbitration awards under the FAA and New York Convention. In addition, she regularly counsels clients on dispute resolution in transactional matters. Her experience spans many industries, including life sciences, technology, post-M&A disputes, disputes involving joint ventures and long-term cooperation agreements, energy and infrastructure.

Rachel has been recognized in top publications and rankings, with The Legal 500 US noting her as an “excellent advocate, writer and cross-examiner” and an “excellent strategist [], focused on case details and the broader goal,” and Chambers USA describing her as “an outstanding technical lawyer” and “a real go-to as counsel.”

In addition to frequently speaking on commercial arbitration topics, Rachel serves on the New York City Bar Association’s Arbitration and International Commercial Disputes Committees. She also serves on the Women in Law Empowerment Forum Global Advisory Board.

Rachel’s representative matters include representing:

- The claimant in an UNCITRAL arbitration brought under North American Free Trade Agreement Chapter 11 relating to an offshore concession to extract phosphate for indirect expropriation and breaches of the Minimum Standard of Treatment and national treatment standards – Odyssey Marine Exploration, Inc. v. United Mexican States
