Cooley

Cristina Lombardi

Associate

clombardi@cooley.com

Mergers and Acquisitions Shareholder Activism

New York

+1 212 479 6894

Cristina's practice focuses on corporate and transactional matters, principally related to mergers & acquisitions. She represents public and private clients – including strategic and financial buyers and sellers – across a wide variety of industries and in connection with complex corporate transactions, as well as general corporate matters. Her practice also includes advising clients with respect to shareholder activism and corporate governance matters.

Cristina's representative transactions include advising:

- Freshworks in its agreement to acquire Device42 for $230 million
- Automattic in its acquisition of Beeper
- Yieldstreet in its acquisition of Cadre
- IAA in its sale to Ritchie Bros. in a $7.3 billion cross-border stock and cash transaction and related shareholder activism defense matters, including IAA's cooperation agreement with Ancora Advisors and Ritchie Bros.' concurrent $500 million investment from Starboard
- Nutrafol in its sale to Unilever
- NeoPhotonics in its sale to Lumentum for $918 million
- Sol de Janeiro in its sale to L'Occitane Group for $450 million
- TCGplayer in its up to $295 million sale to eBay
- Jazz Pharmaceuticals in its divestiture of its Sunosi product business

Education

Fordham University School of Law JD, 2021 Villanova University MA, 2015 Villanova University BA, 2014

Admissions & Credentials

New York